

01—Upside of Down
February 1, 2008

She travels in two circles
For every straight line she has to go
She'll smile at a perfect stranger til he Stops to say hello <hello>

She wanders through the world humming
No one ever sings along
But she's always there on the sidelines
Cheering all her new friends on <on>

Chorus:
Her feet fall so heavy
On this cold unfriendly ground
But she's still out there dancing
On the upside of down

Born with a broken heart
So she'll never lose her way
And eyes spaced just too far apart
To see the world is gray

Oh the way she loves you when she's holding your hand
And it doesn't really matter if she doesn't understand

Her face is a window to her mind
In all its simplicity
And every fleeting sorrow and delight
Beams out for all the world to see, to see